If all statistics on the waste in this country are true, we haven't a darned thing left.

Let us hope that while Russia is in the reform business she will take a shot at her language.

Corranza, poor devil, is a back number. Even the juke departments are dropping him.

Perhaps, however, John Barleycorn is wondering what part of the German army walked over him.

An upward tendency is announced in men's clothing. Bah! Who wants to look at a man's leg?

The bachelor is the only one capable of telling how to manage a wife. The married man knows it can't be done.

A worthy cause has nothing to fear from its active loss. It is a slacker who blocks the wheels of progress.

Once more has nature asserted her right to repeal her own laws.
A small boy has just died from eating green apples.

Since it happened, East St. Louis officials have been claiming that most of the rioters were from Missouri. So are we.

We might, with excellent results, include Congress in the draft. Then they would have to obey orders and do something.

And never before has a list of names been scanned with such keen and overpowering interest. Was it there?

We are in favor of a press censorship if the censor will forbid any newspaper making any reference to the White House pickets.

Since the draft, those cities that returned padded census reports have been busy explaining what has become of their population.

An exchange protests against the proposal to make men's garments without pockets. Piffle! Editors have no use for pockets, anyway.

The embargo, properly enforced, will convince some so-called neutral countries that there is a limit to Uncle Sam's "open door" policy—as it should.

"Avoid kissing if you would have a beautiful mouth," says Lillian Russell. But, Lillian, it is mostly beautiful mouths that are kissed.
No harm in that, is there?

If you have borrowed this paper from your neighbor, be sure to return it when you have finished reading it. He subscribed because he wanted it.

When the government finishes with its other investigations it should look into the conspiracy between the weather man and the coal barons.

Speaking of the trouble in East St. Louis, we are reminded that we just recently waxed eloquent in advice to Great Britain as to the settling of the Irish question.

Sir William Osler, professor of medicine in Oxford University, is 68 years old. It would be cruel to call attention to the fact that this is the same Dr. Osler who contended that a man's usefulness was ended at 50, and that he should then be chloroformed.

The Hon. Jeannette Rankin's crusade for the relief of overworked employees of government departments seems to have met with the same reception as our efforts to collect certain of our delinquent subscriptions. Poor Jeannette!

NOTICE—I have a good pasture with plenty of water and under good fence, one mile west of Dickson on Yellow Creek pike.
Will pasture stock for 75c per month.—Pitt Henslee.

ECHOES FROM KINGSTON SPRINGS

Kingston Springs Happenings Always Interest Readers.

After reading of so many people in our town who have been cured by Doan's Kidney Pills, the question naturally arises: "Is this medicine equally successful in our neighboring towns?" The generous statement of this Kingston Springs resident leaves no room for doubt on this point.

L. O. Nelson, painter and paper hanger, High St., Kingston Springs, Tenn., says: "My kidneys had troubled me for many years. My back ached and was very lame and I found it difficult to straighten after bending over. The kidney secretions were burning and they passed too frequently. The secretions were highly colored, too. I used three boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills and they did me more good than anything else I had ever taken.
They relieved me of all the trouble and cleared up the kidney secretions."

A NEEDED LESSON.

With the clouds of war looming darkly over the country, with plots and counter plots against the peace of our people; with food disturbances in the large cities; and with the price booster stalking abroad in the land, truly it is a time when the sober sense of the American people should be called into use.

But we are unlike any other people on the globe. There seems to be something in the very air we breathe that makes for a different outlook on life from that of any other country. No other land can vie with us in the vastness of its resources. The increase in our national wealth during the last two decades would make Croesus appear a piker, and beside our own magnificence the glory of Solomon as the moonlight to the radiant orb of a day. Our strength and our resources are boundless and limitless.

But because of these very facts we find ourselves as a people standing on the very brink of national disaster.

We are the most confidently careless people on earth, hence find ourselves now engaged in a gigantic conflict and lamentably unprepared for the task before us. What profits us that our resources, in men and material are so vast? Those resources are the latent heat of the coal—undeveloped and unutilized.
A strenuous campaign of preparation is on, but the one absolute-essential element—time—is in a great measure denied us.

Then we are the most magnificently wasteful people in the world.
Beside our national extravagance, the prodigality of kings is as pinching economy. And this trait, too, is threatening to our undoing. Having by our own royal extravagance consumed much, and by shipment from the country consumed much more, we find ourselves facing a demand for unlimited supplies and with practically empty storehouses.
What matters it that other crops may be raised? That same element —time—may be denied us ere the insistent demand is upon us.

The remedy? Several.
To the first place, export nothing that is urgently needed in this country. But perhaps you say that the European nations must be fed.
Granted, but are we under obligations to feed them and let our own people suffer for food? And was it by any act of ours that the bulk of their men are now fighting when they should be at peace and producing? It is well to care for our allies to the limit of possibilities but our own interests must take precedence.

Next, get after the price booster.
If there is any particular class of humans—if such they can be called—to whom prison garb would be actually becoming, it is these gentry.
Without mercy, themselves, they deserve none, without pity, they can expect none. Void even of a sense of justice, they should have meted out to them the justice of "an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth."

Then, let America go to work in earnest—work with the soil. Let us not be satisfied with increased crops this season, but let us plan for even greater increases for years to come, in order that the nation-of the earth may be fed and we still have enough left for our consumption.

And when we produce it, let us conserve it and not waste it.
If the experiences through which we are passing shall have the effect of teaching us a radical economy, they will be worth the price. It is a lesson we need and should heed.

DEATH OF A NOTED EDITOR

In the death of Gen. H. G. Otis, which occurred at the home of his son-in-law, Harry Chandler, Los Angeles, Cal., July 29, the newspaper world lost one of its mighty factors. The life of Gen. Otis was fraught with so much eventful interest that it would take a book to record it all. From early manhood he exhibited such unusual stamina and invincible willpower that he was a leader of men in every position he held. His army record in two wars is as lengthy as it is distinctive; but it was in the newspaper world—the field of modern journalism—that he towered as a giant in the latter years of his useful life. The writer having been employed a few years ago, by Gen. Otis when he launched the first wireless daily newspaper in the world at Avalon, Catalina Island, off the coast of Calif., had first the opportunity of knowing Gen. Otis personally and learning something of the secret of his inherited traits of character that made him such a success in life's great battle. He learned that Gen. Otis' early struggles in the newspaper field in Los Angeles began under unfavorable prospects when Los Angeles was merely a pueblo and his paper almost a handbill in size. But it grew —because Gen. Otis would that it should do so—until it is now the foremost daily in the world. The writer also learned by personal contact that Gen. Otis had a great heart within him, and was battling for freedom in choice to labor. His wealth was merely incidental to his almost consuming desire to give the liberty-loving workman his just dues and he kept up the brave fight till almost the hour of his death. Surely such as he can never die, for principle is immortal.—G. W. Cullum.

In Memoriam.

Watson Charles Wall was born November 13, 1914, and departed this life July 9, 1917.

This kind, tender-loving nephew, son, relative and friend died when childhood's morning was blossoming with joy. It seems like a tragedy for one to be snatched away in the very beginning of childhood, yet we must be submissive to God's will and realize that He has a greater right to our loved ones than we ourselves.

Watson was an exceptional bright little boy, with a sweet and lovable disposition. His cunning smiles and shrewd expressions made everybody love him, while yet a little child he is greatly missed by both old and young.

He was a sufferer for several days but bore his suffering as patiently as a grown person. All that medical skill and loving hands could do was done, but nothing could stay the Grim Reaper, Death. His death was easy. In the presence of loved ones and friends he just fell asleep in the arms of Jesus and his liberated spirit went to his God in glory.
Loved ones, weep not for Watson—the one miss his sweet little voice, fail to hear his prattling footsteps, feel not the twining of his loving arms around your necks and the kisses and prints of his fingers on your cheeks—he is at rest. We can not bring him back to us, but we can go to him.

His remains were laid to rest in the Freeman graveyard. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. E.
L. Kuowles.—G. L. WALL.

And that, too, after spending from $2,000.00 to $4,000.00 and from two ing preparation. It is a poor business man who has not an annual income of $2,000.00. And $5,000.00 is just an ordinary annual income for a business man.

Delegates Selected From Communities.

Nashville, Tenn., July 27, 1917 —Community interest in the Middle Tennessee Farmers' Institute to be held at the State Fair grounds Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, August 29, 30, and 31, is being shown in the various counties by the selection of delegates from the communities which have been working on food preparedness for the past two months. It is the effort of the officers of the counties to get at least one person from each community. Both men and women delegates are being selected.

Road Working.

Eq. J. N. Peeler, of the 2nd District, who has charge of the maintenance tax for that district, reports that last week they had a "road working" on the pike from Sam Petty's to Will Greer's. The road was reditched and graveled for about one half mile, and from all reports was put in excellent condition. The following owners of teams donated hauling of gravel on this road:

Sam Petty, Will Greer, J. W.
Martin, C. F. Crow, Marion Bruce, J. N. Peeler, Bud Bowen, Bob Redden, George Redden, Sam Fielder, Hardin Crow, Harry Work, Winfrey Peeler, Calvin Bruce, George Donegan, Howard Redden.

Those who were paid for their services out of the maintenance tax were:

Ferney Peeler, 3 1/2 days.....	$2.62
Bub Vineyard, 3 1/2 days.....	4.37
Brake Crow, 3 1/2 days.....	4.37
Edd Peeler, 3 days.....	3.75

Clifford Greer, 3 1/2 days.....	4.37
George Martin, 3 1/2 days.....	4.37
Wash Work, 2 days.....	2.50
Raymond Fussell, 3 1/2 days.....	4.37

John Greer, 3 1/2 days.....	1.75
Claude Brown, 2 1/2 days.....	3.12
Sherman Crow, 1 1/2 days.....	1.87

It is their intention to have another working soon and try to complete this road between Sam Petty's and Will Greer's. This is a good work, and is something everyone should be interested in, especially those in that neighborhood.

Civil Service Examination.

The U. S. Civil Service Commission will hold an examination for clerks on August 11th, 1917, at Dickson, Tenn., to fill vacancies in the post office in that city. The examination is open to all who meet the requirements. Application blanks and full information, including sample questions, can be obtained from the Postmaster, Dickson, Tenn., or from the Secretary, Fifth Civil Service District, Atlanta, Georgia.

Ask Anyone Who Has Used It.

There are families who always aim to keep a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy in the house for use in case it is needed, and find that it is not only a good investment but saves them no end of suffering. As to its reliability, ask anyone who has used it.—adv.

Be Sure of the Number Before Calling

The telephone directory is issued at frequent intervals for the information and benefit of the telephone-using public.

Every effort is made to keep this list accurate and up-to-date. It is expected that telephone-users will consult it before making calls. A call for an incorrect number causes delay and possible annoyance to a third party.

Avoid inconvenience to all concerned by looking up telephone numbers in the directory before calling.
